

The American Academy of Nurse Practitioners Certification Program (AANPCP) is pleased to report that we have completed yet another record year providing certifications to Adult, Family, and Gerontologic nurse practitioners. Nurse practitioners, (ANP, GNP, and FNP), that have completed an accredited masters, postmasters, or higher to include DNP were eligible to take the exams in their respective area of specialization. The examinations have been developed in cooperation with Professional Examination Services (ProExam), a not for profit organization with well over 60 years of experience in the development and administration of national and international licensing and certification examinations specializing in health related fields. All exams are offered year round via computer based testing and online applications are accepted up to 6 months prior to program completion to allow testing the week following program completion in most cases.

AANPCP successfully re-accredited with NCCA the ANP and FNP certifications and we are proud to announce we successfully accredited the ANP and FNP certifications with the Accreditation Board for Specialty Nursing Certification (ABSNC).

As of December 31, 2012 there were 38,746 AANPCP certifications listed as active including 30,634 Family Nurse Practitioners, 7,803 Adult Nurse Practitioners, and 309 Gerontologic Nurse Practitioners. 6,517 FNP, 1,529 ANP, and 117 GNP exams were taken in 2012. This number is reflective of a 29.7% increase over 2011 and a 133% increase over the same time frame 4 years ago.

Also in 2012, a full 100% of those certificants eligible to recertify as GNP, 97% of FNP, and 96% of ANP did so, resulting in an all-time high recertification rate. The ability to apply online has greatly enhanced our response time for those doing so. Certificants can start the recertification process as early as 1 year before needing to recertify.

The practice analysis for the new Adult-Gerontology examination was begun in 2011 and completed in 2012 with the resultant examination and certification being offered in January of 2013. The Gerontologic Nurse Practitioner certification exam was retired in December of 2012.
